

Tito Releases Yanks; Orders No Firing On Foreign Craft

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Hopes for the safety of five American flyers shot down by Yugoslav fighters last Monday faded today with a State Department report that the Yugoslav Fourth Army had expressed doubt any of them had parachuted to safety.

By GEORGE PALMER
Belgrade, Aug. 23 (AP)—Premier Marshal Tito, having complied with an angry United States' ultimatum demanding the release of seven interned Americans, has given his air force "the strictest orders" not to fire on foreign planes again, even if they happen to fly over Yugoslavia without clearance.

Tito also has assured U. S. Ambassador Richard C. Patterson that permission would be given American representatives to inspect both U. S. C-47 transports shot down by Yugoslav pilots, the second demand in the ultimatum. One plane was downed near Ljubljana on August 9 and the other near Bled last Monday.

"The Yugoslav government has promised to give satisfaction," U. S. embassy officials said after Patterson's two-hour conference at Bled yesterday with Tito concerning the ultimatum, which required satisfaction within 48 hours with the alternative of arresting Yugoslavians before the United Nations.

Releases Yankies
The Moscow radio said Premier Marshal Tito's government, which yielded to a 48-hour ultimatum yesterday and released seven interned Americans forced down in Yugoslavia August 9, was charging before the United Nations Security Council that the United States illegally held a Yugoslav river fleet on the upper Danube.

Backgrounding this case is a three-to-one split in the foreign ministers council in Paris two months ago over free navigation of the Danube, which courses through Soviet Russia's sphere of influence on its way to the Black Sea.

Two American graves registration representatives were scheduled today to inspect the scene of Monday's crash, amid indications that none of the five crew members survived the fire and explosion which occurred when the ship was forced down.

Two Reported Lost
The foreign office earlier in the week stated that two crew members parachuted but Yugoslav military authorities told the U. S. consul in Zagreb yesterday that no trace had been found of them. The other three presumably perished.

(The Belgrade radio, heard in London, said the entire crew had parachuted, but could not be found.)

RUSSIAN TINT

Moscow, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Soviet press told the Russian public about the United States-Yugoslav dispute in a series of news dispatches today topped by a 335 word Belgrade story quoting Marshal Tito as saying that "whole squadrons of American planes have been flying over Yugoslavia."

The text of the American note to Yugoslavia was not published, but a Tass dispatch from Washington summarized it briefly. A Tass dispatch from New York quoted the New York Times as describing the note as "the sharpest ever recorded in the annals of American diplomacy."

Admiral And Mrs. Nimitz Visit Historic Gettysburg

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who led United States Navy forces to victory over the Japanese in the Pacific, and Mrs. Nimitz are spending today studying the Gettysburg battlefield.

Admiral Nimitz, who as Chief of Naval Operations now has his headquarters at Washington, D. C., came here with Mrs. Nimitz late Thursday afternoon for his first visit to Gettysburg.

They drove here from Washington with Mrs. Nimitz at the wheel and will remain in Gettysburg until Saturday morning when they will leave for Bath, New York, where the admiral will have a part in the dedication of a war memorial being erected by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The couple is staying at the Hotel Gettysburg during the visit on which the admiral has sought to avoid public notice. However, as he is recognized by local residents and tourists alike he has been besieged for autographs.

Impressed With Painting
The inspection of the battlefield was begun Thursday when Admiral and Mrs. Nimitz visited the National cemetery and were escorted by Superintendent Alvin C. Baker. They also visited the Cyclorama and the National museum where they saw the electric map and heard the accompanying lecture.

The Admiral seemed greatly impressed by the Cyclorama painting: "I'm not an expert on art by any means," he told a reporter for The Gettysburg Times this morning, "but that's the finest thing of the sort I've ever seen. Greatest care should be taken to preserve it," he added. He also said he "enjoyed very much" seeing the electric map at the National museum.

"I've read and studied about Gettysburg for many years," the Admiral said, "and I've looked forward to this trip for a long time. I'm a student of Dr. Douglas Freeman's books on Lee and the Civil War and consequently have a great interest in the story of Gettysburg."

Thursday afternoon the Admiral and his wife visited the Lee museum and showed a great deal of interest in the relics there and the information he secured about General Lee.

Uses Surrender Pen
Before he left the museum, he autographed a copy of Elsie Slingmaster's book "Gettysburg" for Allen A. Larson, son of the owner of the museum. As a part of the autograph, he wrote the fact that the pen he used was the one with which he signed the Japanese surrender document aboard the Missouri nearly a year ago.

The trip over the field today was made in a National Park car with Dr. Frederick Tilberg, park historian, as his guide. They left the hotel at 8 a. m. and planned to spend the entire day on the battlefield. Late this morning after covering the first day's fight, they stopped in Center square where they visited the Lincoln room in the former Wills building.

The Admiral was dressed in the khaki summer uniform of the navy with his five-star insignia on his collar.

Tyrone Arranges To Haul Pupils

The Tyrone township school board, at a meeting this week, entered into a contract with Roy L. Martin, Biglerville, for transportation of elementary pupils from the Five Points area to the Oak Grove school, and for the transportation of seventh and eighth grade pupils in the southern part of the township to the New Oxford junior high school.

This makes the fourth school district which has taken action to send its seventh and eighth grade pupils to New Oxford. Others are Hamilton township, Berwick township and Oxford township. Senior high school pupils will continue to be transported to New Oxford the same as last year. The first six grades will be taught at the Oak Grove school. The Five Points school was closed a year ago. Other junior-senior pupils in the township will continue to be transported to Biglerville.

There is a movement on foot on the part of taxpayers of Mt. Pleasant township to send this township's high school pupils to New Oxford. The junior-senior schedule at New Oxford will begin at 8:30 a. m. and school will close at 3:30 p. m.

JOHN BECKER INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Six more true bills were returned by the August grand jury Thursday afternoon. The inquisitory body completed its deliberations at 4:35 o'clock and reported the indictments to Judge Fred S. Reese of Cumberland county, presiding in place of Judge W. C. Sheely, who is in Philadelphia.

True bills were reported against the following:
Merle Baker, Hamiltonban township, two counts of a serious charge.
Fred Shull, Littlestown, cheating by false pretenses, two indictments.
Ivan Cassatt, Fairfield R. 2, assault and battery.

John D. Becker, Gettysburg, receiving stolen goods, two indictments.
"Not a true bill" was reported in the case of Clarence Lochbaum, 235 Chambersburg street, who had been charged with operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner.

Because of the lateness of the hour, Judge Reese told the grand jury that the customary visits to the county jail and other institutions would be dispensed with at this session.

Developing New Residential Area Near Peace Light

LeRoy H. Winebrenner and Ray M. Hoffman, owners of a considerable acreage along the Mummaburg road near the Peace Light, have announced the opening of a new residential sub-division in this section, and the sale of building lots.

The tract is to be known as "Peace Light Acres," and comprises 71 building lots in the rectangle bounded by Oak Ridge, Buford and Wadsworth avenues and the Mummaburg road. It is the site of the old airport.

Workers have begun laying out a new street bisecting the tract parallel with Buford avenue extending to the Mummaburg road, and a second road will be opened from Oak Ridge, Mr. Winebrenner said.

Gas and electricity will be available, but no borough water or sewer connections. Septic tanks will be installed and wells dug, he said.

It will be a restricted residential area, Mr. Winebrenner said, with no stores or business places permitted and restrictions placed on the type and cost of homes and outbuildings. Two lots have been sold and ten more sales are in prospect, according to Mr. Winebrenner.

"Many accidents can be avoided if motorists will heed the commands of School Safety Patrol members," a joint statement said.

"Members of School Safety Patrols devote their time and efforts to help safeguard the lives and limbs of their classmates."

Exercise Caution
"In cooperating to reduce the accident and fatality toll on the streets and highways of Pennsylvania, motorists will do well to exercise more-than-usual caution in driving near or past schools."

"The car owner will be wise if he obeys speed laws in school zones, as they are strictly enforced with reference to travel near public, private and parochial schools."

"In connection with safety on our streets and highways, motorists should remember to drive carefully at all times, but they should be certain to especially 'Take It Easy' when driving near or past schools in order to protect our youngsters from death or injury."

Downed Pilot Flew Relief Supplies To Slavs In War

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT
Gorizia, Italy, Aug. 23 (AP)—The pilot of the U. S. Army transport plane forced down in Yugoslavia two weeks ago said today he failed to understand the signals of two Yugoslav fighter planes which later forced him down with gunfire.

"The fighter planes flew around us a couple of times," Capt. William Crombie of East Longmeadow, Mass. "One rocked its wings. I was told after I landed that that was the international signal to land, but in the American and British air forces that means assembly."

"I did not know what they meant. They kept diving at us and pulling away."

Crombie recalled that he had flown 23 missions over Marshal Tito's country during the war to drop sorely needed supplies, but this was his first flight over the Vienna-Udine route, on which a second unarmed U. S. Army transport was shot down last Monday with possibly five American fatalities.

Crombie was set free yesterday with three crewmen and two military and three civilian passengers after an angry American ultimatum was issued to Yugoslavia.

Crombie said one of the Yugoslav bullets went through the tail of his transport just above the left rudder, gravely wounding one of the passengers (a Turkish captain) whose name was not disclosed.

The other occupants of the plane had to leave the wounded man be-

DUTCH FAMILY THANKS COUNTY COUPLE FOR GIFT

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Binder, East Berlin, who had sent a shipment of clothing to the Netherlands for the use of the war victims, and affixed their name and address in order to learn whether the package would be received, now have a letter from the recipient who spent more than fifty cents to send the letter by air mail.

Although he wrote in his own language, the letter was translated into English on the reverse side. It reads as follows:

"Rottum, July 22, 1946.

"Dear Mr. Binder:

"I will write you a letter, and I hope that you receive it also."

"My name is R. de Hay, age 32 years; I have a wife; she is 30 years old, and 3 children, namely, a boy 7 years old and two girls, 4 and 1 year old. Our country has had it bad during the war; many towns are damaged for a large part and many people have died from bombs. All is over now, but you cannot get all things here; probably you have heard that. The American people has sent us many clothes. Everyone gets a part of that, and so I have also received a few clothes. Of course, we have not clothes enough immediately, but the worst has past."

"Now I find in a coat that I received, a paper with your address. I think that is splendid. Now I get the occasion to thank you and your people for all you did for us. We thank you also very much for all the presents; we are very glad with that; we needed it. I hope that you receive my letter. The address of the paper was not so very easy to read, you understand. The clothes have been needed a long time for they were on the place of destination. But I will try to write the address as good as possible. When you receive my letter and you are interested in the situation here in Holland and what has happened here during the war, perhaps you can write back to me."

"Now I finish my letter. I thank you yet a time for all, with love from

R. de Hay."

POLIO STRIKES COUNTY BOY AT WEST CHESTER

Rudolph Melvin Garland, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Garland, 123 East King street, Littlestown, became the first Adams county victim of infantile paralysis this year when his ailment was thus diagnosed Thursday.

Garland, a summer school student at West Chester State Teachers' college, was removed Thursday morning to the Chester county hospital. His physician, Dr. Joseph Scattergood, Sr., said "I don't think I should say at the moment whether or not he has poliomyelitis." However, Dr. William A. Linberger, secretary of the West Chester board of health, said "we have been informed it is diagnosed as poliomyelitis."

The youth's mother told a Times' reporter this morning that the case has been reported as a "slight one." His left arm is affected and his left leg is affected slightly.

Taking Music Course

Garland graduated from Littlestown high school in 1945 and attended West Chester throughout the winter and summer. He was just completing a three-weeks' course in music when afflicted.

Authorities at the college closed the post-summer special course Thursday upon learning of the case. Originally the course was scheduled to end today.

Although students immediately began dispersing for their homes, the West Chester board of health, which said it had no advance notice of the closing, said 14-day quarantines would be imposed on all of the 100 male students who lived in a dormitory with the ill youth.

Friends of the ill youth said that eight days ago Garland went on a college picnic and fell from a canoe into the water.

Garland last visited at his home in Littlestown over the week-end of August 4.

SEES SYMPTOM OF LARGER ILLS IN SLAV CASE

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Although the safety of the nations abroad has always been a serious consideration of sovereign nations, the row between the United States and Yugoslavia seems to be more a symptom of larger ills than a definitive international incident.

Under other circumstances the situation might not have provoked such an official furore. There were urgency and tension in the air when the Japanese sank the Panay, too, but the resultant representations hardly attained the same pitch.

Odd as it may seem, there are careful observers who believe that the Russo-Turkish situation is as much or more of an issue in this case than the actual attacks on Americans. They believe the United States is now beginning to accept the lines as drawn; that there really are two worlds instead of one; that we are finally out to stop any further infringement of one upon the other; that this is a time of testing, of seeing how far the eastern sphere is willing to pursue its own policies at the risk of a collision with the west. They see the Yugoslav incidents as providing a safer means for such tests than would be offered by a sign across the bosphorus saying "halt!"

Diet of Fear and Distrust
As these observers see it, Tito, acting as a front line "patrol" for Russia, has backed down rather than have an issue drawn between the Soviet and the United States which might have disrupted the United Nations council. It is taken as a sign that Russia is not yet ready to attempt more than can be done without an open break.

The probing is going on back and forth all along the line, as witness the new Russian-Yugoslav agitation over Danube shipping. America keeps on trying to loosen Moscow's hold on northern Korea, and to fathom the Soviet aims regarding Manchuria and the Communists in North China. American interests are making a deep penetration into Afghanistan. The British are moving to balance Russian pressures in the middle east. There is a movement apparently designed to preserve Italy as a buffer and possible future ally.

Fear-fear and distrust—are the daily diet in the eastern European sphere. That such a diet always will lead to incidents such as those which now have occurred is axiomatic. The spectacle of Yugoslavs cheering in the streets as their planes shoot down their allies, who have done so much for them, certainly emphasizes the state of the world. But it is more important that the incidents have become transmission lines for far higher voltages generated elsewhere.

Runaway Boys Stole Workers' Lunches

Two Philadelphia boys have proved to themselves that it doesn't pay to run away from home.

Lured by the expense of forest near Caledonia, two 15-year-old youths slipped away from home last week with a few dollars in their pockets and hitchhiked to Caledonia where they set up a make-shift camp.

Their money gave out last Monday and they became hungry, so when a number of highway workers, along the Caledonia road were not looking the boys "borrowed" a couple lunch pails and had themselves a feast.

Meanwhile the highway workers, missing their lunches, called state police. The boys were arrested Wednesday and taken to the Chambersburg city jail for detention.

Verifying the teen-agers' story that they had run away from home, the state police arranged to have the youths fed properly. Their parents were notified and later they arrived in Chambersburg to return the wiser boys to their homes in Philadelphia.

Price Of Newsprint Boosted $7 A Ton

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—The selling price on newsprint is up $7 a ton today, and it may be boosted further soon.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see another increase before long," an OPA official told a reporter.

In announcing the immediate $7 hike yesterday, OPA cited these reasons:

- 1. "To help assure an adequate supply of newsprint for United States publishers by attempting to prevent a diversion to other markets of foreign newsprint."
- 2. To "check any tendency on the part of domestic producers to divert newsprint production to other more profitable lines of paper."
- 3. To offset manufacturers' higher costs for raw materials, labor and freight.

LEGION HOLDS OLD FASHIONED STATE CONFAB

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (AP)—An old-fashioned state convention of the American Legion was in full swing today with all of its prewar gaiety and frolic.

But despite last night's evening of jollity during which Philadelphia's famed mummerys organization paraded before half a million people, the Pennsylvania Department of Veterans launched a serious drive to back Uniontown's Paul H. Griffiths for national commander.

The Legionnaires also:

1. Ruled that Seabees were eligible for membership.
2. Voted that temporary police of the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve are ineligible.
3. Received from the U.S. Navy for state legion archives official casualty lists of Pennsylvanians killed or wounded in World War Two.
4. Heard State Commander James P. Murray of Forest City criticize Legion posts which "have become commercial and are not donating to the carrying out of the Legion's mandated program, but are existing only because of the income that comes from the club facilities they maintain."

First Pennsylvanian

5. Heard Harry J. Crosson, assistant manager of the Veterans' administration in Philadelphia ask legionnaires to perform "missionary work" in convincing returned veterans to keep government life insurance.

6. Heard a report from the Veterans' administration that 150,000 veterans were receiving pensions in Pennsylvania, 28,000 of whom are veterans of World War One.

In endorsing Griffiths, a 49-year-old wholesale dairyman who served as private in World War One and Colonel in World War Two, Commander Murray pointed out that no Pennsylvanian has ever been national commander.

NEW THEFT OF HEIRLOOMS IS TOLD AT TRIAL

Frankfurt, Aug. 23 (AP)—A new theft of priceless heirlooms from Kronberg castle was charged by the United States Army today as the prosecution opened its case against 43-year-old Wac Captain Kathleen B. Nash Durant in connection with the million-and-a-half dollar Hesse crown jewel theft.

The prosecution alleged that the former manager of the Phoenix, Ariz., country club had ordered a German employe of the House of Hesse to empty a safe in Kronberg castle and hand over its contents.

The prosecution indicated that it would introduce as evidence a "voluntary statement" which Capt. Durant allegedly made after her arrest in connection with the theft of a lead-covered box of glittering gems from the basement of the castle.

The alleged new theft was disclosed by Assistant Prosecutor Capt. Harold H. Chase of Salina, Kan., who opened the prosecution's case.

Jewels Displayed

In addition to the jewels placed in the castle cellar by the Hesse Foundation, he said that Prince August Wilhelm of Prussia entrusted his personal possessions with the Princess Sophia of Greece and they were locked in a safe in the castle.

"Sometime after the jewels were taken from the cellar" Chase alleged, "the accused demanded that Herr Heinrich Lange, administrator of the Hesse Foundation, open the safe and give her the property in it."

Overnight the army laid out the dazzling collection of jewels on a long table below the bench. They were covered with four drab army blankets and two military police armed with automatic rifles sat motionless at each end.

Tito Releases

and two Europeans aboard the plane forced down August 9 were released from custody an hour before Tito's conference with Patterson. They had been held in a Ljubljana hotel for almost two weeks. The other passenger, a Turkish captain, was reported recovering in a Ljubljana hospital from wounds suffered by gunfire when the plane was downed.

9 Enter Italy

(The nine released men crossed the Morgan line into Venezia Giulia last night and were taken at once to U. S. 88th Division headquarters in Gorizia, Italy. They were reported in excellent physical condition and said they had been well treated while in custody.)

Marshal Tito disclosed his "cease fire" orders to his air force in response to a note sent him by two American newspaper correspondents—a representative of the Associated Press and one of the New York Times.

"In the event of further American planes flying over Yugoslav territory without clearance, is the same procedure to be adopted as on August 9 and 19?" the correspondents asked.

"No," said Tito's written reply. "I have given the strictest orders to the Yugoslav Fourth Army commanders not to fire on foreign planes, civil or military, and the procedure is not to be repeated."

Claims Infringement

In response to another question, the Yugoslav premier said he thought American planes had deliberately infringed upon Yugoslav frontiers "to create the impression among Yugoslavs that the forces of the United States government are so overwhelming that the Yugoslav government must take everything."

He said this "was especially shown in the cases of whole squadrons flying over." Earlier in the week, in a speech to Yugoslav workers, Tito also complained of "whole squadrons" flying over Yugoslavia.

His response to the correspondents' inquiry said the appearance over Ljubljana of a flying fortress only a few days after the first U. S. craft was shot down was "a pure demonstration" of his thesis.

The correspondents' questions were presented to Tito during the conference with Patterson, who declined to make any report on the meeting.

Members of Patterson's party said it was obvious that Tito would make no written answer to the lengthy U. S. ultimatum without considerable further study. He was said to have interrupted the reading of the ultimatum several times to comment on various points.

Embassy officials who accompanied Patterson to the conference expressed satisfaction at the talk and commented that the "door has been left open for further conferences."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Although the Montreal Royals are breezing toward the pennant with about a 16-game margin, the International league is having a terrific race. . . . And that makes cents—two million of them. . . . The International sets aside one cent from each paid admission for a players' pool. Of this $7,000 is split among the first two clubs in the regular season and the rest makes up the playoff pot. . . . With an expected record attendance of over 2,000,000 this year, there'll be about $13,000 at stake in the playoffs and a team that just squeezes into fourth has a chance to take down most of that—don't think the players on the four clubs that have a chance for the three spots behind Montreal don't know all about the figures. . . . Wonder what the American league race would be like with a similar setup?

York, August 23—Ex-GI Ernie Calhoun, York lightweight, will tangle with Walter Michaels, Baltimore, in the semi-windup of the boxing card to be presented next Tuesday night at the West York ball park under the direction of Promoter Clock.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)
The Hartford Chiefs were in a third-place tie with the Wilkes-Barre Barons in the Eastern league's division race today after winning their third consecutive doubleheader of the week. They beat Utica, 4-3 and 4-0.
The Chiefs picked on sixth-place Utica last night for their latest dual triumph and set down the Blue Sox, 4 to 3 and 4 to 0, while Wilkes-Barre divided a pair with Williamsport. The Barons romped to an easy victory in the opener, 11-0, but succumbed in the night cap, 2-1.
The Scranton Miners, leading the loop by a comfortable 16½-game margin, defeated Elmira 8-0 and 4-3 Albany's second-place Senators encountered little trouble in disposing of Binghamton, 6-3.

Steelers Get Test Against Scranton

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP)—Back in coaching ranks after four years with the naval reserve, veteran football Coach John B. (Jock) Sutherland tonight will try the temper of his Pittsburgh-Steelers against the club's farm team, the Scranton Miners.

The game is one of four exhibition matches in which the Steelers will warm up for the National football league campaign.

The game will be watched throughout professional football circles as Sutherland, who coached university of Pittsburgh teams to grid fame, tackles the job of uprooting his home town's pro eleven from its eastern division cellar berth.

The Steelers have just completed three weeks of intensive drills at Hershey, Pa., while the Scranton team, an American football league entry, trained at Hummelstown, a short distance away.

CARDS TAKE 2 FROM PHILS TO TIE FOR LEAD

By JOE REICHLER (AP Sports Writer)

If the St. Louis Cardinals fail to win the National league flag this season, it won't be the fault of Stanley Frank Musial, the circuit's number one batter.

Top man in almost every offensive department of play, Musial, in the past two weeks, has staged a terrific batting rampage which reached stellar heights yesterday when he practically singlehandedly batted the Cards into a first-place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Musial rapped out six hits as the Cardinals swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-6 and 4-3, to draw even with the Dodgers who were shut out, 2-0 by the Reds in Cincinnati.

The Chicago White Sox won their first game from the American league leading Boston Red Sox in nine starts at Fenway Park this season by coming from behind to eke out a 4-3 11-inning decision.

Yanks Win Pair
Winning their second double header in two days, the runner-up New York Yankees trounced the St. Louis Browns, 4-3 and 8-2 to reduce the Red Sox' lead to 1½ games.
The Boston Braves won their sixth straight victory over the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, to move within 2½ games of the third-place Bruins.
Rookie Southpaw Monte Kennedy won a tight pitching duel from Veteran Rip Sewell as the New York Giants nosed out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1-0 in ten innings.
The Philadelphia Athletics hammered Bob Feller for three consecutive hits in the seventh inning to outscore the Cleveland Indians, 8-6, for their third straight victory.
A scheduled night game at Washington between the Detroit Tigers and the Senators was halted by rain at the end of two scoreless innings.

Today's Talk
FREEDOM FROM ANXIETY

As I watch the rugged training that an athlete has to go through for any great contest, I wonder at the enthusiasm displayed, and I wonder why more human beings do not take note of this, and put the same energy and determination into the ordinary, and common everyday affairs of life. For is not all life and living a contest—a contest for superiority and constant improvement?

In dire circumstances people as a rule are unusually brave, but how few of us prepare far in advance for these emergencies? It is, however, the only road to freedom from worry and anxiety. It is essential that we look ahead. We are never assured as to what the morrow may be. But we can forearm ourselves. We can make plans. We can set a program before us to follow.

Little do we realize how anxiety eats into the very fabric of our being, disturbing our digestion, muddying our mind, defeating so many of our firm resolves, and leaving us restless and confused. Anxiety is the product of a multitude of wrong thoughts and bad habits.

Thus it is that we learn anxiety is an effect and not a cause, so that to banish it, we must find healthy and happy substitutes for those things that bring it about. We keep cleaning out our homes, making them attractive and livable, and we do this regularly. The same should be done with our lives. By making a determined effort to clean out those things that cause anxiety, we tread the path to the triumphant life.

It was the greatest Teacher of all who once said: "Let not your heart be troubled." He knew what caused anxiety among the poor, the distressed and unfortunate. Some of the substitutes that He suggested were to divorce all fear, to love one another, to return good for evil. All of these always work, and the result soon is an absence of anxiety.

A new life begins every time you dismiss a fear! Troubles lessen, and the atmosphere of your mind clears like the blue sky smiles, after the storm. One of the great lessons of life is to learn to live but a day at a time. Tomorrows take care of themselves.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Soothing Harmony"

Just Folks

WEEK-END VERSE
Week-end for laughter,
The sunshine, the sea;
Care follows after;
Now, happy be.
Farewell to hurry
And troubles that fret;
Farewell to worry

Week-end for gladness
And dancing and song;
Farewell to sadness!
The hours are not long.
Time goes by flying.
The days are so few.
If you've been sighing,
Start laughing anew.

Week-end for playing,
The young and the old.
Friendship's assaying
Proves better than gold.
Come in with laughter,
Go laughing away.
Fun's what we're after.
So welcome to play!

INFORMATION IS OFFERED SMALL BUSINESSMEN

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Small business people—those who have such a business or are thinking of starting one—may be able to get from the commerce department information that will help them.

Within the commerce department is a special bureau called the office of small business, whose job it is to help small businessmen with many of their problems—although, of course, not all.

Suppose you're a small businessman—or want to open a small business—and there are some questions that bother you. You'd like some help, or some information.

In that case, what can you do?

Increasing Staff
Right now you can write to, or visit, the small business office in the commerce department here in Washington. It has a number of specialists who will try to give you guidance.

The office here has a staff of about 100. It is adding several hundred more. When they've been given special training, they'll be sent out to the department's branch offices.

When these branch offices are staffed you write or visit them, stating your problem to the specially trained men. Or you can still write or visit the main office here in Washington.

The Way It Works
The work of the small business office goes something like this: John Jones wants to open a small business. He can't decide whether to make it a corporation or partnership. And he's bothered by a question about patents.

He comes to the office here, or writes to it, explaining his case. He's given information on the difference between a corporation and a partnership. And patent experts try to help him on his patent problem.

Here's another man, Tom Smith. He wants to go into a small business for himself but can't decide on any one business. He comes here, or writes.

Booklets Available
A staffer will work on his case, try to winnow through the kinds of business in which he thinks he can really make a living, and then perhaps suggest he read:

1. A booklet called "Establishing and operating your own business."
2. A number of other booklets explaining the problems of individual business like filling stations, shoe repairing, auto repairing, and so on.

This is all a pretty sketchy outline of the kind of work the small business office is doing. But it is written to call the office to the attention of people who can use its help but may not know it exists.

New Compromise Is Studied By Bakers

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (AP)—Company and union negotiators studied a new compromise formula today that Common Pleas Judge Joseph Siano hoped would end a strike of 1,883 AFL bakers, now in its 14th day.

The compromise settlement, planning the problems of individual business like filling stations, shoe repairing, auto repairing, and so on. This is all a pretty sketchy outline of the kind of work the small business office is doing. But it is written to call the office to the attention of people who can use its help but may not know it exists.

Chapter 3

Lillie couldn't remember when or how she had decided that Violet was meant to be a lady, just as she couldn't remember when or how she had decided on a number of things. That some day things were going to be easier for Mom, that there wouldn't be the endless counting of money, the worried adding and subtracting with the stub of a pencil on a store bag. That there wouldn't be any collectors at the door, nice pleasant men who took twenty-five cents a week on the kitchen linoleum or Violet's crib, and who smiled kindly at first when Mom went Lillie to the door to say there was no money that week and who after the weeks passed, turned away with a grim, worried look of their own. She didn't know how these things would be accomplished, but she knew that they were going to come about just as she knew that winter turned to spring and spring to summer. Some day, she, Lillie Posey, was going to have nice clothes and a nice house and lots of money, and above all, Violet was going to be a lady, a great lady, beautiful and kind, and people everywhere would love her and say how wonderful she was. She couldn't explain, if she had had to, her feeling for Violet.

By the time she was fourteen and ready to go to work, the feeling that Violet should have only the best had become a fixed obsession in her mind. In the last year that Lillie had to play "Sheepy Run" under the street light, or Indians and Cowboys among the rock strewn fields, Violet was at an age to tag along behind the bigger boys and girls but Lillie would have none of it. Violet could be the captive white maiden to be rescued, perched securely on a high rock away from the rough and tumble playing that Juteville knew. She could be the fairy princess who rewarded the winner at Mumbely Peg. But she could not be a participant. Lillie had said so, and no one ever questioned Lillie's authority, least of all Violet, who was sweet and mild and altogether a good child. Lillie walked the long bridge to Bradford City twice weekly to borrow books from the library there to read to Violet. Stories of Rose Red and Rose White, of Beauty and the Beast, and hundreds of others. Once the librarian had said, "Aren't you a rather big girl to be reading these stories?" Lillie had said, "Yes, ma'am," and extended her hand for the books, and there was in her tone something that made the austere woman, three times her age, hesitate to say more.

After she went to work in the mill, Lillie had less time for reading to Violet, but now there was an extra dollar in the Posey household, and Mom even let Lillie keep a little of her weekly pay for herself. This she hoarded carefully, and each Sunday she walked across the bridge to Bradford City and spent the afternoon looking in the windows of the better stores at the kind of things she wanted for Violet, or walking up on the Hill and seeing what the children who lived there were wearing. If the weather was nice, she would put Violet in the stroller-cart and take her along. It took more than a year to save the money for the plain blue reefer coat and the beaver hat she wanted for Violet and after she got them, she learned the lesson she wasn't to forget—that while Violet was indeed different from the other Posys, that difference could be lost in associations.

When she took the hat and coat home, her mother had sighed, "Lillie, they're awful plain."

But Lillie said, "It's what they're wearing on the Hill, Mom."

"Well," Mom said, "it cost an awful lot for something so plain. I like fancy things myself."

"So do I," said Lillie, "but then, Mom, we're not like Violet. We need the fancy stuff to deck us out, but not Violet. She needs nothing."

The next Sunday Lillie dressed Violet in her new clothes, and then looking at her decided that she would take her up to the church on the Hill in Bradford City, for Violet looked just like the children Lillie had seen going in there.

A man in striped trousers and a black coat which made Lillie wonder how he had gotten so mixed up, smiled when the two came in and showed Lillie, without her asking, where to go. There were a number of other children Violet's age there, and the two women in charge motioned Lillie to the back of the room and sat Violet with these children. Lillie felt as though her breast would burst. Violet looked just like all the others, only prettier, and when a third woman came in, Lillie heard her whisper, "What a pretty child. Who is she?"

The woman she spoke to shook her head, "I don't know. They were late. We will have to find out afterward."

When the class was over, the one woman took Violet by the hand and said, "You are a sweet little girl. Whose little girl are you?"

Violet looked at her steadily and then turning, smiled at Lillie. She turned back and smiled up at the woman.

"Lillie's," she answered.

One of the women said, "How cute," and motioned for Lillie to join them. Then she said quietly, "For whom do you work, my dear? Whose child is she?"

"I don't work for anybody, ma'am," Lillie answered. "I work in the mill in Juteville. Violet is my sister."

The one woman said "oh," rather flatly, and the other one raised her eyebrows in a way that in years to come was to be very familiar to Lillie. In that moment she knew with great clearness that Violet could never be all that she planned for her if she were to be marked indelibly as a Posey. She never took Violet across the bridge again. Not even after she moved across it, to live in Bradford City for the rest of her life.

KKK IS ALIVE BUT INACTIVE IN MICHIGAN

(Fourth of a Series)

By ARTHUR W. EVERETT

Detroit, Aug. 23 (AP)—Officials of Catholic, Jewish and Negro organizations say there has been no evidence of any organized Ku Klux Klan activity in Michigan in recent years. State and local police confirm their statements.

However, an official in a position of authority in Detroit told the Associated Press that it would be "premature" to describe the Klan as entirely inactive. The knights still officially cling to life.

The original state charter was granted in 1925 and the KKK still makes statutory annual reports to the state Corporations and Securities Commission. John M. Dill of Flint, whose name appears on the latest one, declined to say how many members are enrolled.

The old Klan headquarters in downtown Detroit is now owned by the United Sons of America.

Recurrent Reports
George W. Mathis, one of the organizers of the United Sons in 1943 and now its leader, said:

"The United Sons is not now and never has been connected with the Ku Klux Klan."

A police file in Detroit describes an official of the United Sons as a man who has "carried on the activities of the Ku Klux Klan." Neither the United Sons nor its leaders has been accused of any unlawful activity.

Mathis declined to say whether he had ever been a Klansman.

There are recurrent reports of Klan activity within factories—especially the big auto plants. A grand jury in Detroit is currently inquiring into such allegations.

Officials of the CIO United Auto Workers report no important evidence of large scale Klan activities.

Fix Game Bird Season In State

Harrisburg, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Game commission today fixed the migratory game bird season in Pennsylvania from October 26 to December 9, inclusive.

The season for ducks, geese, and brant will be from October 26 to December 9; woodcock, October 10 to October 24; doves, November 1 to November 30; rails, gallinules and sora, September 1 to November 30, and coots, October 26 to December 29.

The season will be closed on Wilson's snipe, Ross's geese, and swans.

The commission said hunters will be permitted seven ducks per day, including not more than one wood duck, and that they may take up to 25 American and red-breasted mergansers a day; two geese and brant; four woodcocks, and 10 doves. In addition to the daily limit for geese and brant, two blue geese and snow geese, singly or in the aggregate, may be taken.

Margiotti Buys Share In Pirates

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23 (AP)—Former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti announced last night he had bought 11 per cent of the stock in the Pittsburgh Athletic Co., which owns the Pittsburgh Pirates, and said he hopes to buy more of the outstanding stock.

By "outstanding," Margiotti meant stock other than the 60 per cent acquired a few weeks ago by a four-man group composed of Banker Frank E. McKinney of Indianapolis, now president of the club; movie and radio actor Bing Crosby; John Galbreath of Columbus, and Thomas P. Johnson of Pittsburgh.

McKinney said that his own group planned to acquire additional stock, if possible.

Part of the remaining 28 or 29 per cent is owned by Pittsburghers.
